Quando ascolta o legge cose scontate, ridicole o semplicemente assurde, ognuno di noi è tentato di segnarsele e al tempo stesso di archivarle in fretta, stendendoci sopra un "velo pietoso". Nella primavera del 2021, Albinati ha fatto entrambe le cose: invece che tapparsele, ha tenuto le orecchie bene aperte registrando le sparate, i rumori di fondo, i discorsi ingannevoli o deliranti, le frasi fatte, i miraggi, le parole d'ordine che caratterizzano quest'epoca sommersa dalla retorica. Perché è la retorica il male che affligge a ogni livello il nostro Paese: minacciosa o patetica, contamina ogni discorso, lo gonfia e lo trascina il più possibile lontano dalla realtà. Mescolati con l'ironia pungente di un pamphlet, brandelli di tv, giornali, libri, pubblicità e cronaca politica si alternano a brevi racconti esemplari e riflessioni sul parlare e sullo scrivere, schegge di bellezza e verità che ci permettono di muoverci dall'abulia e andare avanti. Il risultato di questa "stagione in ascolto" è un diario amaro e divertente, da consumare tutto d'un fiato o da consultare di volta in volta, per mantenere accesa l'attenzione.

Long hailed as a seminal work of modernism in the tradition of Joyce and Kafka, and now available in a supple new English translation, Italo Svevo's charming and splendidly idiosyncratic novel conducts readers deep into one hilariously hyperactive and endlessly self-deluding mind. The mind in question belongs to Zeno Cosini, a neurotic Italian businessman who is writing his confessions at the behest of his psychiatrist. Here are Zeno's interminable attempts to quit smoking, his courtship of the beautiful yet unresponsive Ada, his unexpected—and unexpectedly happy—marriage to Ada's homely sister Augusta, and his affair with a shrill-voiced aspiring singer. Relating these misadventures with wry wit and a perspicacity at once unblinking and compassionate, Zeno's Conscience is a miracle of psychological realism.

I have decided to write this short book for my little Michelle, if something unpleasant were to happen to me one day I thought it only right that she should know the truth. The little one said many strange things when she was little more than in infancy and to keep them as memories I always wrote them in a simple workshop notebook... but that notebook was full to bursting... and I was too

An intense look at the rules of high school attraction -- and the price that's paid for them. It happens every year. A list is posted, and one girl from each grade is chosen as the prettiest, and another is chosen as the ugliest. Nobody knows who makes the list. It almost doesn't matter. The damage is done the minute it goes up. This is the story of eight girls, freshman to senior, "pretty" and "ugly." And it's also the story of how we see ourselves, and how other people see us, and the tangled connection of the two.

A Wonderful Testimony Then Jesus Appeared To Me by Gianluigi Sio is a brief autobiography of his life transformation after seeing Jesus alongside a busy roadway. Captivating and a short read, readers come to see a powerful spiritual change that took place in the heart of the author, coming from a place of lust, sin and greed for money. The author retells his conversion that is sometimes embellished with humor along the way as the author speaks of how incredibly stupid he could be, making fun of his humanity. As such, his story is worth the read, as he offers snip-its of the demonic battle he faced in reading the Gospels, and strange occurrences such as his bed shaking, but then he shows how he overcame all by faith and perseverance. He describes the Fathers love and embrace as something "tangible," and give credence to the power and presence of God as awing and heavy. His life and testimony are a powerful blessing to the world around him and show others how God turned him around for the good. His only hope is others may come to know Jesus as well. For Americans, this book represents a different culture, which is a delight to read. The author, Gianluigi Sio, grew up on a small island in Italy. In fact, he makes fun of this fact and states that the only playmates he had was watching a crow building a nest in an old oak tree. Still, he wasn't joking-as he describes watching her build a nest. Life growing up in a small Italian town was different to say the least and is very different from America. Offering glimpses into this life, one thing he recalls was the stars at night that fascinated him. Surely, he knew there might be a Creator out there somewhere and that, we, as humans, are so finite. His book relates the commonality of mankind, a commonness we all face, "sin," and the propensity towards temptation. His testimony makes for a delightful read that makes mention of moments that stood out in time for him. The little comments his darling daughter make are intriguing and will make one stop and think. My personal favorite is, "God never sleeps." His story encourages all to consider their ways and run to Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior, repenting of all sin, not in a religious way, but gives insight on the new heart, life and joy Jesus wants to give you.

...that bill that needs to be paid...there isn't much work...the car needs to be changed but not before all those debts are cleared...In other words, the usual garbage, but from that moment on my life changed completely, because I finally understood, thanked and prayed. I stopped in the traffic queue behind the other cars, at the second traffic-light in Arzachena. It was red again: as usual - two times out of two - always the same! About six cars ahead of me, on the right, there is a dingy-looking, square-shaped little portico and a hairdresser's window with a thin white marble door-step. The street was full of cars, full of people walking to and fro, and under that little portico I saw Jesus, The Nazarene. I looked at Him and recognized Him (believe me if such an experience happened to you, you wouldn't doubt it was Him), but in seeing Him I wasn't scared, nor stunned and not even emotional. I did nothing and nothing happened to me. It was like it was the most natural thing in the world - an everyday occurrence. I suppose deep down I didn't realize at all what was happening and I said out loud the most idiotic thing a human person could ever possibly say: "Jesus?...but what is Jesus doing here?...There's no church here!" Anyway, I continued looking at Him; I couldn't take my eyes off Him. He was a young man, not yet thirty. He wasn't the age typical of the many images we see in churches, but younger, around 25. With blond hair, almost straight, turning wavy as it fell onto His shoulders...Let's just think about this for a moment, dear readers: a young Man like this, in the prime of His youth, Who chose to be scourged and die on the cross in order to save us and our children. I managed to grasp the immense power, depth of mercy and magnitude of His choice only later...much later.I can't tell you if Jesus had a beard or not, because I remember His face only vaguely, but I think He did have some. I'm very sorry for this lapse of memory.He was very slim with a perfectly straight back. He held a hand up in such a position that He appeared to be greeting someone on the other side of the road. But I didn't look across; I continued to look just at Him the entire time. Jesus wasn't exactly facing me but only partly, giving me a side view of His left profile. He was wearing a light-blue tunic and not the typical robes of bright yellows and reds that you see in many holy pictures; He was in light blue - blue as the sky at three o'clock in the afternoon.I can't tell you if He was barefoot, touching the ground, or if He was wearing shoes - I looked down carefully but the tunic, which was extremely simple, reached to only two or three centimeters off the ground and so I couldn't see His feet.All around me everything carried on as normal: nobody got out of the other cars; the people walking on the pavement didn't stop; nobody ran to kneel down at the feet of Jesus; nothing at all happened... It was then that I realized I was the only one seeing the apparition.After about two minutes in the traffic queue waiting for the lights to turn green, I shook myself and realizing what was happening I said to myself: "No...This is not possible! Jesus died two thousand years ago! This must surely be a statue, or an icon, or something else... I'm going to take a look!".But alas!, the traffic-light had already turned green, so I went into first gear and released the handbrake, but from that moment I no longer saw Him! Jesus disappeared in that very instant!Past the traffic light, I strained to see if He had moved, but I could no longer see anyone under the portico or next to it...Only later I understood what had happened. If I think again about those two sentences I said aloud, by far the most idiotic one, if not the most serious, was the second.It was by far the most serious because of my lack of Faith, to the point that I didn't even believe what I had actually seen with my very own eyes!And Jesus left and went away

What society considers blasphemy - a verbal assault against the sacred - is a litmus test of the standards it believes to be necessary to preserve unity, order, and morality. Society has always condemned as blasphemy what it regards as an abuse of liberty
